COFFEE TRADE.

Very little is known here in the coffee trade of a report from Rio Janeiro that a syndicate had been formed there for the purpose" of assuring stability to coffee quotations and to facilitate business in that computity." A prominent coffee broker said, regarding the situation: "From what I have heapft they are trying to establish a sort of coffee trust down there. There are three coffees trust down there. There are three coffees are said from the planter and the confees are said from the sustains Columbus press story, and thus sustains Columbus press story, and thus saistains Columbus press story, and thus press story, and thus succer outside of Brazil. First there are the commissaries, who buy from the planter; then come the dealers, and last the exporters. As I understand it, this syndicate is made up of the dealers, who will try to keep the selling price of coffee while they keep down the price at which they purchase?"

VIRGINIA'S SLATE PRODUCTION.

A bulletin of the Census Bureau states that Virginia is the sixth in the production of slate for the year 1889. The total value of slate produced by the State was $55,05; the wages paid to produce it amounted to $66,926, and the total cost of production was SENATOR VANCE NOT DISTURBED. Senator Vance is not at all disturbed at the numerous reports and dispatches from North Carolina to the effect that the Farmers' Alliance of that State is con-

"For years," added the Senator, "here has been a constant warfare between the farmers and the Richmond and Danville road, and through it all I have been the champion of the farmers. It is natural that the railroad should oppose me, but I have nothing to fear from the farmers. Up to the present every convention for the nomination of members of the Legislature has endorsed me. Bosides, all the judicial and other conventions, with one exception, have endorsed me. I am informed that one convention declined to endorse me solely on the ground that as it had nothing to do with several conventions and the second of the
